(Please contact the House for directions, and advice regarding parking.)

Cost per person: £125. This includes sessions with Kenneth Steven and full board.

Boswell House is delighted to welcome the well-known writer Kenneth Steven to lead this residential October weekend. A writing retreat is a chance to take time out from the hectic whirl of daily life to find the courage to engage with the imagination. It's about doing so with kindred spirits, and it's about learning more about the creative process and how we can develop our skills more effectively. Kenneth Steven, a poet and writer of fiction for adults and youngsters alike, has for many years facilitated intensive creative writing sessions, and published two handbooks on the sculpting and publishing of poetry. Please bring along some examples of your work- in-progress for sharing with Kenneth during one-to-one sessions, and also your favourite piece of writing by a writer other than Kenneth.

Boswell House offers a peaceful place for people to rest and reflect, and is a private, residential and ecumenical 17th century town house offered for prayer, meditation and retreat in the heart of Montrose.
